

FOCS StudF01: Instructions / Advice to Students Undergoing Industrial Training and Letter of Indemnity

Instructions / Advice to Students undergoing Industrial Training Faculty of Computing and Information Technology

Practical training is an integral part of your Diploma and Degree Programmes in the University. It will provide you with an opportunity to establish contact with the profession of your choice and may lead to employment after your graduation.

For your own good and to uphold the University image you are required to follow the rules set out below:

1. As a trainee member of staff, you are naturally under orders of the company that you are attached to. You must at all times observe strict discipline on matters in connection with your job and your behaviour must be above criticism.
2. Your services should be used as much as possible by the company so that you will not be left idle. Even if your training supervisor is too busy to give you exact instructions and tasks, you should take the initiative to try and make yourself useful, and try to learn as much as possible.
3. Since you are new to your work, every care should be exercised to safeguard against accidents. Do not operate any equipment unless you are sure of or have been taught how to operate it. Permission to operate any equipment must be obtained from the supervisory personnel.
4. Should any accident occur during the training, inform the Department of Students Affair and your TAR UMT supervisor within 14 days. We will help to make claims from University group personal accident insurance.
5. You are not allowed to take out from the company premises any software, hardware, stationery or any information pertaining to company's work, unless permission has been given by the authorised personnel of the company.
6. You are prohibited from leaking secrets, or providing any information related to the business of the company or its clients or any other information acquired during or after the training period, to outside parties.
7. You are prohibited from destroying or misusing any property belonging to the company.
8. You are not allowed to use any company's facilities e.g. photocopying machine, fax, or printers for personal use. You are required to keep all information pertaining to the company in strict confidence, which you are entrusted with.
9. If a student is found to have violated these regulations, or to have neglected his or her duties, or to have breached discipline, appropriate action can be taken against him or her by the University.
10. Should you have any problems relating to your training, you should contact the Faculty of Computing and Information Technology Office, your Programme Leader or your TAR UMT Supervisor.
11. You are not allowed to terminate your training early. You must consult the Associate Dean, Programme Leader or your TAR UMT Supervisor before applying for leave from the company for essential matters.
12. All trainees are advised to be punctual and to wear proper attire at all times in the place of work.
13. The Faculty will request for a confidential report on your training from the company concerned after you have completed the training. Your training will be graded according to the report submitted by your training supervisor and your progress reports submitted to your TAR UMT Supervisor.
